

Cyber Security and Data Governance Workshop for Industry

UWEcyber are delighted to offer SMEs the opportunity to attend a free Cyber Security and Data Governance Workshop during the 2022/2023 academic year. We will be hosting workshops both at UWE Bristol (Frenchay campus), as well as at our FE partner, Gloucestershire College (Cheltenham campus), to maximise the opportunity to reach SMEs across the West of England region. This opportunity is a collaboration between the UWEcyber team, the DRAGoN (Data Research, Access and Governance) team, with the generous support of the National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC) to offer this out to our regional community.

The workshops are designed to help SMEs think about their interactions with data, and work through scenarios relating to cyber security and data privacy that may impact on SMEs. This will include understanding the 'Five safes' model for managing access to sensitive data, developed by Professor Felix Ritchie in conjunction with the Office for National Statistics. We will also highlight cyber security case studies and table-top exercises that will help you to re-think about data privacy and cyber security issues and how they relate to your organisation. Finally, we will hold open discussion to understand the concerns and challenges faced by SMEs in cyber security and data governance, to identify potential opportunities where ongoing collaboration with academia could facilitate your business.

The workshops will be highly interactive and will serve as an opportunity to connect with UWE academics on issues related to cyber security and data governance. We hope that by attending the workshop, we can develop our network of supporting SMEs across the region, and to improve cyber security education across the region.
